Research Essay Proposal

Due February 22.

At the top of the proposal, place your hypothesis, which is the conclusion you imagine that your research will reach. This form is of the hypothesis basically the same as a thesis, yet the thesis of your essay may turn out to be quite different. This section should be headed, Hypothesis.

In two pages, outline your project, including the novel(s) you intend to include and the critical or theoretical approach you're taking. This section should be headed, Outline.

Provide a list of possible research sources, which you do not need to read in advance. The more possibilities you have, the better. This section should be headed, Sources.

The proposal should reach three to four pages.
