

There are three versions of ERIC available to WIU student, staff, and faculty: The free version of ERIC is hosted by Syracuse University and is freely available to anyone. WIU also allows access to the First Search and OVID versions of ERIC. These versions are available only to WIU Students. They contain certain searching options that the free version does not. Below is a table comparing all three.

FREE ERIC	FIRST SEARCH ERIC	OVID ERIC
It's Free	Searches can be Restricted to Holdings	Automatic Hyperlinked Searches
Most Complete Record	Automatic Hyperlinked Searches	Ability to Combine Searches
The online ERIC Thesaurus is easily accessible and includes an easy to use search wizard	Linked Access to WIU Catalog	Linked Access to WIU Catalog

On the following pages are examples of the same record as seen in all three interfaces. There are differences. Notice there are slight differences between the free version of ERIC and the other versions in the number of Identifiers listed. Note, too, that what ERIC and First Search call a Publication Type OVID, for reasons of its own, calls a Record Type. This differences matter most when you switch from one interface to another--to take advantage of that interface's searching capabilities.

If you click the fields in the free ERIC record below, a text box will appear explaining the meaning/use of that field. ERIC provides a page defining all the fields at <http://askeric.org/Eric/Help/fields.shtml>
